XHP 605 Compressor Fluid

A hydrocarbon-based synthetic lubricant, using a patented process, designed and approved for Doosan compressors operating above 300 psi.

- Your best choice for high operating temperatures – providing outstanding thermal & oxidation stability
- With its high level of purity and refinement, along with unique additives, this lubricant provides a high viscosity index, high flash point, and a low pour point
- Prevents excessive carry-over into service air
- Reduced oil consumption – low volatility and lower evaporation loss means less oil goes downstream
